Ceva receives EU marketing authorization granted by the EU Commission for Cirbloc® M Hyo, a new Ready To Use vaccine to protect pigs against PCV2 and Mycoplasma hyopneumoniae

Libourne, October 29, 2024 – Ceva Animal Health (Ceva), the leading French animal health company and the 5th largest global player, present in 110 countries, recently received the European marketing authorization from the European Commission for Cirbloc® M Hyo.

The new vaccine is based on the PCV2d genotype, the most circulating one in the field and on the Mycoplasma hyopneumoniae (M.hyo) strain BA 2940 already used very successfully in Hyogen®.

PCV2 and M.hyo are two of the most frequent agents affecting pigs health. Both are primary pathogens especially involved in Porcine Respiratory Diseases Complex and can be successfully controlled by vaccination.

With a single injection of 2 mL it is possible to reach the best length of protection against the two major pathogens. Pigs being protected against PCV2 and M. hyo from 6 weeks of age until 26 weeks covering the whole fattening period.
